Mid-America Truck Show

Global staff recently visited the Mid-America Trucking Show in Louisville Kentucky in support of product roll-out activities related to its patented G-MAD™ air deflector. Through its product development activities, GLOBAL has designed several three (3) piece air fairing models for Class 5 & 6 trucks. These were introduced to a variety of Heavy Truck OEM's at this show. As a result Global expects to secure orders for this family of products in the 2nd & 3rd quarters of 2006.

Global's Sales Manager, Ron Yaroch, is spearheading this effort. OEM and Fleet Buyers/Operators are encouraged to contact Ron to receive additional details on this unique and practical product. His contact information appears at the end of this newsletter.

Those of you who may be visiting the upcoming TRUCK WORLD 2006 show in Toronto (April 20-22, International Centre) will be able to spot a three (3) piece G-MAD™ design on display at the HINO Motor Sales Canada Limited stand located at booth #1272. Be sure not to miss it!

Staff Training

Senior Management at Global is pleased to announce that it has entered into a year long training program commitment with Skillpath Seminars. This program provides Global management staff with monthly training to help further develop and maintain their management skills and remain at the forefront of current business practices. The training will be held entirely at Global in its dedicated training facility. It is expected that 20-25 management staff will participate in each session. Global selected Skillpath on the strength of its reputation for excellence, the quality of its trainers, and the range of skill development it presently offers. Global is delighted with the training received so far this year and looks forward to a long and productive relationship with Skillpath Seminars.

Recent Successes

The 1st quarter of this year has been a very successful for Global Vehicle Systems Inc., The Tooling and Automation Division is enjoying a strong increase in sales and is participating in a number of new tooling projects. Ongoing improvements in standardized products and rapid integration of new technology is allowing this division to design and build premium quality equipment at competitive prices and with a dependable and rapid delivery performance.

The Paint and Assembly Division has several production paint and assembly contracts that are keeping it very active. There is still some excess capacity available, as such, customers are encouraged to contact this division to discuss upcoming production or prototype paint needs.
